Day/Vocational Services

Supporting involvement at work and in the community

- Habilitative Community Inclusion

Skills training can include self-help, socialization, and adaptive skills. This isn't focused on paid work but on spending at least 60% of the time doing activities in the community.

- Habilitative Workshop

Focused on building skills in a variety of settings, including future employment opportunities. This typically includes paid work and community involvement (though not the main focus).

- Prevocational Services

These services are for people who want to find future jobs. Lasting up to a year, these activities will help the individual gain skills to find and keep a job.

- Supported Employment Services

This service takes place in a competitive job environment, at or above minimum wage. The goal is to keep building the skills needed to maintain jobs in the community.

Residential Services

Living in a community to build lifelong relationships

- In-Home Residential Services

While individuals live in their own homes or with family members (such as parents), these services allow them to develop and maintain skills, ranging from personal care to protective oversight.

- Residential Habilitation

This around-the-clock service happens either in a group home setting (living in a community with roommates) or an Extended Family Home/Shared Living (similar to child/adult foster care).

- Risk Services

These services provide extra training and clinical staff involvement to give the best support to individuals with high behavioral needs, all within the community.

Clinical & Ancillary Services

Providing support in crisis and for specific needs

- Consultative Assessment Services

A clinical team of Licensed Independent Mental Health Practitioners conduct risk assessments and build a plan for an individual who may need additional support.

- Crisis Intervention Services

These short-term services are for individuals who need immediate, intensive, habilitative support to work through periods of crisis.
